Dear Members and Friends,

Happy New Year! This year is a very special one for Preservation Pennsylvania as we celebrate the 20th anniversary of our founding. In 1982, with the support of Governor Richard Thornburgh and the Pennsylvania Historical and Museum Commission, the General Assembly established and capitalized the Preservation Fund of Pennsylvania - a statewide revolving fund created to further the preservation of threatened historic properties in the Commonwealth.

That small, single-purpose agency was the parent of today's organization. In 1985, the Preservation Fund merged with the Pennsylvania Trust for Historic Preservation. The new entity became a membership organization and offered a wide range of technical, financial, and information services. In 1990, the organization changed its name to reflect its broadened mission; it became Preservation Pennsylvania.

Today, Preservation Pennsylvania is the Commonwealth's only statewide, private, nonprofit organization dedicated to the protection of historically and architecturally significant properties.

I have had the honor of being associated with the organization for half of its twenty year history. In the spring of 1992, at the encouragement of two past presidents, the late P. Otto Haas and Henry A. Jordan, I stood for election to the Board of Directors. I served the organization as secretary from 1994-96 and as its president from 1996-98. After rotating off the board of directors in 1999, I continued to serve on the Advisory Board before returning to the active board and assuming the presidency last July.

My association with Preservation Pennsylvania has been an extremely rewarding one. The board of directors, past and present, is the most outstanding, committed, and dedicated one with which I have ever had the privilege to work. The staff, despite being small in number, is both competent and loyal.

As we celebrate a proud past, we are also hard at work planning for the future. Strong membership is a key element in this plan. Your dues and your generous donations to our annual year-end appeal are vital to maintaining Preservation Pennsylvania's support base.

As we begin a year of celebration, I would like to thank you for your past support and to urge you to renew your membership and to contribute to our 2002 annual appeal. We need your involvement as we carry out the mandates of our mission and as we continue to implement the goals and objectives of the Pennsylvania Historic Preservation Plan.

I also hope you will join us for one or all of the events that are being planned to celebrate the beginning of our third decade of protecting and preserving Pennsylvania's architectural and cultural heritage.

LEGISLATIVE REPORT

STATE

Historic Homesite Grant Program
(formerly HB 90-91)

Earlier this fall Preservation Pennsylvania was hopeful that early 2002 would bring the first round of Historic Homesite grants. The program, which would provide matching grants to Pennsylvanians who own and reside in historic houses, was originally proposed as a tax incentive program through House Bills 90 and 91. The grant program that was included in the state budget would make $500,000 available for matching grants to homeowners. In light of the recent economic downturn, the fate of the Historic Homesite Grant Program is uncertain. Preservation Pennsylvania, 10,000 Friends of Pennsylvania, and the Pennsylvania Historical and Museum Commission continue to monitor the budget process in consultation with legislative advocates for this important preservation initiative.

House Bills 2010 & 2011

In the continuing effort to provide Pennsylvanians with meaningful historic preservation tax incentives, Rep. Thomas Tangretti (D-Westmoreland) and Rep. David Argall (R-Schuylkill/Berks) have introduced HB 2010 & 2011 which would provide state tax and grant incentives to individuals and businesses that rehabilitate and use historically significant residential and commercial properties. HB 2010 was referred to the House Finance Committee, and HB 2011 to the House State Government Committee.

FEDERAL

Reauthorization of Transportation Efficiency Act

Important to the preservation community for the “enhancements” funding provided to a broad range of projects, the Transportation Efficiency Act that began as ISTEIA (Intermodal Surface Transportation Efficiency Act) and continued as TEA-21 is up for reauthorization in 2002. An alliance of groups has been formed to advocate for reauthorization and the program’s continued importance in building better communities through better transportation investments. More information on the Alliance for a New Transportation Charter can be found on the website of the Surface Transportation Policy Project at www.transact.org or by calling 202-466-2636.

Update on PA Department of Education Guidelines for School Construction Reimbursement

The Basic Education Circular (BEC) on School Construction Reimbursement, issued in 1998 as a result of efforts by the preservation community to level the playing field for older and historic schools, is set to expire on June 30, 2002. Staff from Preservation Pennsylvania and the National Trust for Historic Preservation met with PDE officials in early January and were encouraged that the 1998 guidelines will be continued. We were also encouraged by PDE to suggest ways we would like to see the guidelines modified and strengthened. Tom Winters, PDE Deputy Secretary for Administration, will be a speaker in a session on school building rehabilitation at the 2002 Historic Preservation & Heritage Partnerships Conference in Bethlehem; this will be an opportunity for preservationists to talk about how the current guidelines have worked and what changes we would like incorporated into any revisions to the existing BEC.

PRESERVATION PA AT WORK

NEW LEADERSHIP AT PRESERVATION PA

President Margaret Wallis and Vice President Mary Werner DeNadai have a long history of involvement in historic preservation and in the work of Preservation Pennsylvania. Both have served as president of the organization and together they have assumed the leadership of the organization for the fiscal year that began July 1, 2001. Both are committed to creating a new strategic agenda for Preservation Pennsylvania and to strengthening programmatic and financial resources that support historic preservation efforts in the Commonwealth.

Margaret Wallis is a professional fund raising consultant based in Ambler. From 1979 until 1992 she was a development officer for the University of Pennsylvania, the Morris Arboretum and the Medical Center. Prior to that she served as executive director of the Chestnut Hill Historical Society and as executive secretary of the Ebenzer Maxwell Mansion. In recent years she has also served on the board of the Highlands Historical Society, a group responsible for the administration of The Highlands, a National Historic Landmark in Montgomery County. “Pennsylvania’s wealth of historic sites and buildings are irreplaceable and the role of Preservation Pennsylvania in educating the public about historic preservation is critical to preserving and protecting these significant places. Preservation Pennsylvania has an excellent board of directors who are deeply committed to strengthening and expanding the role of this organization in assisting local communities to preserve their historic resources,” said Wallis. “As we move into our third decade, the board will be working with staff and with our partner organizations, especially the PHMC, to implement the mandates of the Historic Preservation Plan.”

Mary Werner DeNadai is both a distinguished architect and strong advocate for historic preservation at the local, state, and national levels. As former chair of Preservation Action, the national preservation advocacy organization, and currently as a Trustee of the National Trust for Historic Preservation, DeNadai is a leading voice for historic preservation as a key tool to combat sprawl and to revitalize our historic communities.

“Through our recent advocacy pilot project with the National Trust and 10,000 Friends of Pennsylvania, Preservation Pennsylvania has made great strides in furthering a preservation ethic in the Commonwealth,” said DeNadai. “We have fought and won the passage of revisions to the Municipalities Planning Code and are close to the creation of a historic homesites grant program. My goal for the organization is to build on these victories and continue to strengthen our advocacy position in Harrisburg.” DeNadai has recently been elected to the board of AIA Pennsylvania; she plans, through her role in this statewide organization of professional architects, to bring an increased preservation ethic to that organization’s membership.

The next issue of this newsletter will profile Preservation Pennsylvania board member Hannah Leavitt, who was recently elected judge of Pennsylvania Commonwealth Court.

IN THE NEWS

PENNSYLVANIA AT RISK
• Lincoln Highway landmark SS Grand View Point Hotel, aka Ship of the Alleghenies, was destroyed by fire on Friday, October 26. This unique structure, suspended from the mountainside near Schellsburg, Bedford County, was listed as an endangered property in Preservation Pennsylvania’s Pennsylvania At Risk in 1993.

• The Dream Garden Mural (Pennsylvania At Risk 1999) will stay in the lobby of the Curtis Center to be seen and enjoyed by future generations of Philadelphians and visitors. Saving the Dream Garden from possible sale and relocation is being hailed as a precedent-setting victory for preservation and a validation of the importance of the City’s preservation ordinance. The Pew Charitable Trusts are providing $3.5 million for the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts to acquire the mural. This brings to an end a complex three and a half year legal battle, which included court challenges to historic designation of the mural. Funding from The Pew will be used to buy out the interest in the mural owned by the estate of John Merriam’s widow. The other institutions with interests in the mural - the University of Pennsylvania, the University of the Arts and Bryn Mawr College - now transfer their ownership rights to the Academy.

PLACES
• On October 16, 2001, Secretary of the Army Thomas E. White announced the location of the United States Army Heritage and Education Center in Carlisle. The complex will include the Army Heritage Museum and the Military History Institute and an Education Center that will tell the story of the American soldier through the Army’s 226 year history. The complex is expected to be completed over a four and a half year period; sections will be opened to the public as they are finished. For more information contact: David Popen or Charlotte Cole at 717-258-1102, 22 Ashburn Drive, Carlisle, PA 17013-5008. A tour of the virtual museum can be viewed at www.armyheritage.org

• On Tuesday, January 22, the Lower Merion Conservancy will celebrate the preservation and reopening of the General Wayne Inn, 625 Montgomery Avenue, Merion Station. Placed at the top of the Conservancy’s 2001 list of endangered historic properties, the 1704 inn has had a dramatic series of threatening events over the past five years, including bankruptcy and murder. Former Lower Merion resident and restauranteur Frank Cacciatito, who also owns the Seven Stars Inn in Phoenixville, has leased the building and is reopening the inn as a restaurant. To join the special celebration on January 22, contact the Conservancy at 610-645-9030 or programs@dragonfly.org.

• Grey Towers, built in 1886 as the summer home of James Pinchot, and later home to conservationist and Forest Service founder Gifford Pinchot, was reopened to the public in August after an extensive restoration undertaken in cooperation between the U.S. Forest Service, which administers the property, and the National Park Service. Restoration of this Milford mansion, designed by Richard Morris Hunt, included conservation and replication of decorative paintings and wall finishes to return the house to its early 20th century grandeur.

• Two art deco 1947 trolleys offered residents of Philadelphia’s University City free excursion rides during the recent holiday season. The return of the trolley is viewed by local advocates as an important component in developing mass transit solutions to meet the ever-growing transportation needs of the city and region as well as revitalizing the historic street car suburb of University City.

• Attendees at the 2001 Pennsylvania Historic Preservation & Heritage Partnerships Conference in Greensburg had the opportunity to hear Glenn Tothman speak about the Memory Medallion, a new technology for storing, retrieving and modifying information in a remote location. Described as a weather resistant stainless steel-encased silicon chip about the size of two stacked quarters, the medallion enables the storage of text and images in any location. It functions with the use of a handheld, laptop, or notebook PC and a wand to activate the downloading of information from the medallion. Glenn and his partner Brendan McManus now have their business up and running. For more information contact them at www.memorymedallion.com; 1-877-418-8107; Memory Medallion, Inc., 61 Richhill St., Waynesburg, PA 15370.

• The Conservancy of Montgomery County joins the growing list of local preservation organizations with websites. Visit them at www.conservementco.org. The Conservancy also reports on the continuation of their historic resource survey project. Volunteers are sought to work on documenting historic properties in East Norriton, Hatfield, Upper Dublin and Springfield Townships, and in Ambler Borough. Contact the Conservancy at 215-283-0383.

• Architectural Salvage programs can provide a source of materials to homeowners and others involved in renovation/restoration/rehabilitation projects and a source of income for local preservation organizations. Local organizations with salvage programs include:
  • Allentown Preservation League, 1319 W. Linden St., Allentown. Open first and third Saturday of each month 9 a.m.-noon and third Thursday of each month 6-9 p.m. For more information call 610-437-1989.
  • Centre Park Historic District, Reading, Artifacts Bank, open noon-1 p.m. first Sunday of every month, 705 N. 5th St., Reading. 610-375-7860.

PEOPLE

- August Carlino, president and chief executive officer of the Steel Industry Heritage Corporation, was recently elected chairman of the Alliance of National Heritage Areas. Steel Industry Heritage Corporation coordinates the Rivers of Steel National and State Heritage Area. In his capacity as chair of the Alliance, Augie will act as spokesperson on behalf of the twenty-three nationally designated heritage areas. Pennsylvania has the largest number of federally-designated heritage areas in the nation. These include the Delaware and Lehigh Heritage Corridor, Rivers of Steel, Path of Progress, and the Lackawanna Heritage Valley.

PUBLICATIONS

- The National Park Service has released Preservation Brief 42: The Maintenance, Repair and Replacement of Historic Cast Stone. Used to simulate more expensive carved natural stone, cast stone was a popular decorative architectural material beginning in the second half of the 19th century. Now considered an important historic material in its own right, cast stone has unique deterioration problems that can require both traditional and innovative solutions.
